

We Can Help Keep the Farm & Family Intact

- Managing a successful farm takes time, strategy and a little luck. As an Owner, you don't just plan for next month, you plan years into the future despite many variables.
- There are 2.2 million farms in America and of that, 87% are owned and operated by individuals or families.

If we value family farms, we need to do what we can to foster their transition to the next generation.

Without planning, you increase your farm's chances of becoming one of the following statistics.

70% of first-generation operations do not successfully transition to the next generation

90% of second-generation operations do not make it to the third generation

96% of third-generation operations do not survive to a fourth generation

Take small steps now that will help you:

- Keep family peace
- Provide estate liquidity for fair distribution
- Help cover debt

Long Term Care Costs Threaten Family Farms

Long Term Care is the extra assistance you may need to help maintain your quality of life. The right plan may help cover the cost of your long-term care while offering you flexibility, choice and control over how you receive that care. Planning for your long-term care needs now allows you to stay in control and help protect what is important.

- 70% of Americans 65 and older will need some form of Long Term Care.
- 51% of all Long Term Care services are provided in the home.

You've spent a lifetime building your operation. Keeping your legacy alive and the business in the family, is important to you and those you leave behind.
